

Professional Continuous Development (CPD) workshop Environmental and Sustainable Design

The Department of architecture, The Chinese University of Hong Kong is organizing a number of workshops related to the captioned topic in the coming academic year (2004-2005). They are designed for Professionals working in the field wishing to learn more about the subject. The workshops, part of our MSc in Environmental and Sustainable Design Programmes, are now available to working professionals as non-degree CPD training. Participants who have completed the workshop and all assignments to a good level of achievement will be awarded a Certificate of Merit. Professional with this certificate(s) may be offered exemption to courses of the MSc and Postgrad Dip programme if they subsequently wish to enroll formally.

Environmental Design - cases

Professor Dean U Hawkes, University of Cardiff, UK

30 Oct to 7 Nov 2004

The art of architecture not only embraces the fundamental need for shelter from the natural elements, it also has other purposes and meanings. The selective environment is an approach to environmentally responsive architectural design that seeks to make connections between the technical application of building sciences and the sustenance of cultural identity during rapid global changes. Through a number of critical case studies of buildings worldwide, the course aims to explore a number of themes and to relate theory to practice.
