STUDY THE CITY WHERE IT HAPPENS

The School of Architecture at the Chinese University of Hong Kong is situated within the Pearl River Delta, a vibrant region where cities are changing with unprecedented speed and scale. Our postgraduate programmes are conceived as part of a design and research agenda with a strong focus on emerging issues in Asian cities, which we believe contain elements of spatial intelligence rooted in cultures and places. While grounded in the knowledge of the past, our design and research engage with urban realities of twenty-first century Asian cities as they are shaped by cultural, economic, and political differences. We seek to affirm and expand the role of the architect through professional and ethical responsibilities. We are committed to research-based architectural and urban interventions, informed by long-standing and distinguished research activities of studio leaders in areas such as tectonics, technology, urban studies, conservation, and history and theory.

Admission:
Applications for the MArch, MPhil and PhD programmes should reach the School by 28 February 2010. Further information can be found on the School website (http://www.arch.cuhk.edu.hk/admissions) and the Graduate School website (http://www2.cuhk.edu.hk/admissions/graduate_programme).
